Blair Promises British Jews

A Holocaust Remembrance Day

Editorial

Summer 1999

"I, the Jury"

When most of the charges levelled at Detective Inspector Ben Bullock, the policeman unlucky enough to be second in command of the Stephen Lawrence murder case were dismissed by a police discipline panel, Mrs Doreen Lawrence was quoted as claiming the result was a "whitewash". This officer, who could have avoided the disciplinary panel altogether by retiring earlier in the year, had instead the courage of his convictions and faced his accusers knowing in his own heart he had done the best that he could in difficult circumstances. But still Mrs Lawrence isn't satisfied.

To date, everybody accused by her who has stood trial has been acquitted. She may not like it but that's called British justice.

Just what does the woman want? To be judge and jury?

Judge and Jury, Doreen Lawrence

Justice for Albert

Our "Justice for Albert" campaign has opened with letters to the Home Secretary, the Metropolitan police commissioner, and the new head of the Racial and Violent Crimes Task Force, asking all for a progress report on their search for the killer of Albert Mariner. This is phase 1. For phase 2 we have contacted an MP who we believe is unbiased enough to agree to question the various officials should they fail to reply to our letters, and have had a fairly positive reply. A meeting will be held soon with the MP to go over details of the case.

In the meantime I would like to thank those who have contacted us with information and offers of help. It is good to know that Albert's murder has not been forgotten.

Disgraceful

The news that Searchlight publisher, Gerry Gable had been invited to join the panel advising the police on Racial and Violent crimes brought a wry smile to the face of many veteran Searchlight watchers. For Gerry has previously "helped police with their inquiries" although under more stressful circumstances.

But on a more serious note, we feel that the appointment to this panel of someone who has a history of harassing people because of their political beliefs through his magazine, and has some very shady contacts in the criminal world, is nothing short of disgraceful and we will do our utmost to get his appointment overturned.

Finally

We have no objection to British Jews holding private memorial services to remember their co-religionists who died during WW2. But if this event is to become a public, national event then shouldn't we also be holding a separate Remembrance Day to remember those British soldiers and Arab civilians brutally murdered in the Palestine Campaign?

I shall write to Mr Blair, Mr Straw and the Labour MP for Hendon asking for their support in these proposals and will print any replies received.

The Editor.

Labour Concede To Jewish Lobby Demands For A Holocaust Remembrance Day

In the last issue of League Sentinel we revealed that Foreign Secretary, Robin Cook, whilst receiving an award from the Holocaust Educational Trust, had promised the audience that he would support demands for a Holocaust Remembrance Day to be created in Britain. Now we can reveal that a proposal to make January 27th Holocaust Remembrance Day will receive the full support of the Labour government.

The proposed event will attempt to emulate the existing Remembrance Day, held every November during which Britons pay homage to those who have made the ultimate sacrifice for our country since 1914.

Holocaust Day, planned as being the nearest Monday to January 27th, which was the day that Russian forces captured the Auschwitz labour camp in Poland, will probably have parades, guards of honour and wreath laying ceremonies probably attended by royalty, Government officials and prominent Jews, and throughout the nation Britons will be encouraged to remember foreign citizens allegedly murdered by foreign soldiers in foreign lands.

Whether or not intended, ultimately this "alternative Remembrance Day" will eventually devalue the British Remembrance day and in turn will devalue the sacrifices made by British servicemen in struggles which include Two World Wars, as well as the Malaya and Palestine campaigns.

According to reports, Prime Minister Blair has ordered Home Secretary, Jack Straw, to make plans on how best the proposals can be implemented. Whilst in parliament, Labour MP, Andrew Dismore, the member for the consituency of Hendon, North London, which has many Jewish voters, has formally proposed the move by launching a Commons Bill.

In Israel, where there has been a Holocaust Day in place since 1951, all places of entertainment are forced to close for the day and traffic is ordered to stop for two minutes at 8am.

There is no doubt that Andrew Dismore's proposal, when implemented, will only strengthen the arguments of those in the European Nationalist Movement who maintain that certain shadowy but powerful Jewish organisations have a secret agenda which includes the imposition on the British people of first a Holocaust Remembrance Day, followed by a publicly funded Holocaust Museum, then a complete ban on Holocaust denial.

Whether these theories are just a figment of a vivid imagination, or true prophecies of the future.... only time will tell!

Meanwhile, Robin Cook continues to creep closer to the bandit State of Israel by hosting, at British taxpayers expense, a Labour Party Friends of Israel party at his official residence in Carlton Gardens recently.

Note: As we were going to print we have learned that there has been a proposal to build Britain's first Holocaust Museum in Manchester.

Uproar Over Claim That Asian Woman Is Given Job Because She Supports Labour

Walsall, West mIdlands council are to hold a special inquiry into allegations that a redundant female community worker was given an unadvertised job in the authority's anti-poverty unit because "as an Asian she could influence the Indian vote for Labour".

The woman had been made redundant from her post as a deputy principal officer at the Delves Community Association but in a tape recording allegedly of a secret meeting between an unnamed Labour councillor and two trade union officials, it is suggested that the woman should be given the unadvertised anti-poverty unit post because she could "influence the Indian vote for Labour".
The tape is to be presented to the enquiry team.

A proposal for the immediate dismissal of the woman for a breach of the appointment process was rejected at a council meeting when, amazingly, several Conservative councillors voted with Labour to reject the move.

As Walsall council struggle to balance their books to the extent that they have increased council tax by eight per cent, they still seem to be able to find money for "good causes". The local race commissars who run the Strategic Race Equality Partnership had demanded an increase in their funding and despite the council's pleas of poverty, they had no difficulty in finding an extra £5000 to increase the race group's budget from £11,000 to £16,000. The race group gets a grant of £26,000 from the taxpayer via the Commission for Racial Equality.

Manchester

Manchester police following their new "politically correct" doctrine have started to interview all police officers, black, white and Asian to "weed out" those with racial prejudices. Unfortunately for them one of the first people they interviewed was a Bangladeshi officer with three years experience in the force who revealed he hates Jews and Sikhs.
He was dismissed from the force and is now taking legal advise about unfair dismissal.

South London

Labour's law and order policies took yet another tumble when in Southwark, South London, the Labour council's chief whip, Ian Wingfield, was stopped on the underground and fined £10 for "fare dodging".
Councillor Wingfield compounded his crime by giving a false address.

Southwark Labour council have a history of inconvenient and embarrassing situations. Just recently they issued mobile phones to selected members of staff for use in their work.
One Nigerian member of the legal department ran up a bill of £11,000 on his phone which he was using to phone relations in Nigeria.
Proposals to sack the man were vetoed by his trade union.

Blacks Say, "Let's Go Back To Africa"

A London-based group of Rastafarians are calling for all Black people to leave Britain and "reclaim their heritage in Ethiopia".

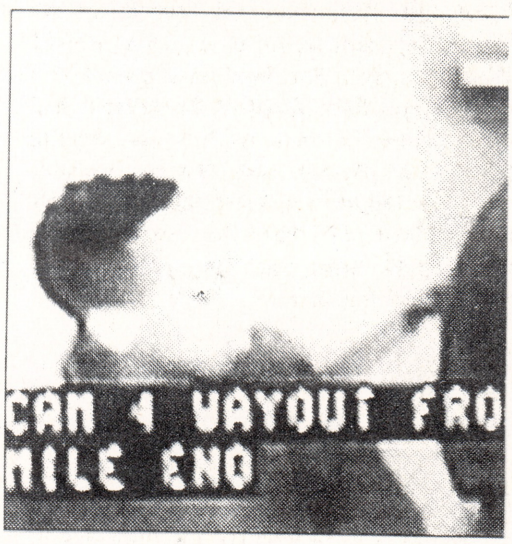
The group, the Centenary Committee for Rastafari (CCR) have already started a massive building project in the Shashamane area of Ethiopia on land donated in 1955 by the then Emperor, Haile Selassie, as a place for Black people who want to return to Africa.

To accomplish their dream, CCR members are holding a series of fundraising events to raise the £10,000 needed to complete the first phase of the project.
League Sentinel will be writing to the CCR giving them the address of the Lottery Grants board, and wishing them every success with their admirable plans.

Muggings Increase As Police Fear Racism Charge

Politically correct policing in the wake of the Lawrence enquiry has resulted in an increase in street crime, predominantly violent muggings by 32% in just three months. For some obscure reason, non-violent muggings, where the victim is just terrified into handing over their valuables to thugs, have not been included perhaps for fear of further inflating the already horrific figures.
Glyn Smyth, Chairman of the Met Police Federation, which represents rank and file officers, said that an increasing number of police officers are reluctant to tackle suspects from ethnic minorities for fear of being accused of racism. "There is a definite connection between using stop and search and a reduction in crime but officers have now started to disengage from stop and search".
The crime figures released by the Home Office have shocked even the political puppets that occupy the senior jobs in the police service. A forecast that street crime would ONLY increase by about 40% over the next two years was clearly wrong. A serving officer told League Sentinel, "Because of the reduction of stop and search there are more drugs being carried on the streets, more knives and more guns. Many youths from the ethnic minorities feel confident that they can act with impunity".
Police officials have admitted that stop and search operations have dropped by 50% since the Lawrence enquiry but deny any link between this and the alarming increase in street crime.

Can You Identify These Scum?



Police are appealing for help in identifying these thugs who brutally attacked and robbed a 14 year old boy in East London. If you can help please contact League Sentinel and we will put you in touch with the officer dealing with the case.

Germany

SS Volunteer Freed After War Crimes Trial

Representatives of Germany's small but powerful Jewish community, along with extreme-left anti-fascists joined forces to condemn the releasing by a Stuttgart court of a former SS volunteer who had been found guilty of war crimes.

Seventy-nine year old, Alfons Gotzfried, an ethnic German born in the Ukraine, had in 1941 volunteered for service in a SS unit assisting Ukrainian Auxiliary police units in arresting pro-communist resistance terrorists operating throughout German liberated territory.

Unfortunately for Herr Gotzfried, one of the more menial tasks he was given was to assist the loading of lorries with weapons which it was alleged were later used to kill 17,000 inmates of the Majdanek labour camp in Poland.
As a result of this hostile action, Alfons was condemned by a Russian Military court as a war criminal in 1947 and served eleven years in a Siberian concentration camp.

Released in 1958, Alfons lived a quiet life suffering only from the onset of mild dementia as he grew older. In 1997, he was questioned by German investigators about his wartime activities· and allegedly admitted to shooting 500 people, but he didn't know if these had been resistance terrorists, civilians or labour camp prisoners.
Despite later denying he had made any such admissions, the vengeful German government charged him with war crimes.

Once again, Alfons Gotzfried stood in the dock ready to be punished again for loading weapons in to lorries during wartime. Also there was the case of 500 unknown victims that poor demented Alfons had allegedly admitted shooting.

Predictably he was found guilty by the court but a not unsympathetic judge sentenced him to ten years imprisonment, and then ordered him to be freed as he had already been punished for the same offences in 1947.

Martin Luther King Rally Snubbed

Despite a massive publicity campaign, this year's Martin Luther King Memorial Rally was snubbed by both Blacks and Whites.
The rally, held annually to remember the assassination of the Black militant leader, was held in the grounds of the Lorraine Motel where King had been killed by a single shot in 1968.
The rally organisers had expected upwards of ten thousand people to attend were stunned when just FIFTEEN turned up.

The low attendance has been attributed to recent exposures of King's real character. That of a womanising drug abuser who financed his expensive lifestyle with money donated to his Civil Rights Movement.
Even King's family were too embarrassed to make a public appearance, preferring instead to lay a wreath at his grave in a private ceremony.

Euro-Elections

Over Eleven Million Vote Nationalist In European Parliamentary Elections

Despite a largely apathetic voter turnout throughout most of Europe, Nationalist groups did better than expected by many political observers who felt that the Nationalist "bubble" had burst. In just nine European countries over eleven million voters cast their votes for Nationalist candidates.

In sheer quantity of votes, the Italian nationalists, Alleanza Nazionale (AN) gained the highest amount of votes cast, winning in excess of 3 million votes, which gave them 9 MEPs. Lega Nord polled just over 1 million votes (4 MEPs) and the hard-line Fascist, MSI polled 495,000 votes to win one seat in the European parliament.

In France, the split in the ranks of the Front National (FN) led to the emergance of a new party, the Front National Mouvement National, (FNMN), led by the charismatic, former FN deputy leader, Bruno Megret. The continuing legal battles between these two groups left both of them with their election funds frozen by court order, and consequently only low profile campaigns could be mounted. This gave the opportunity for the newly formed anti-Maastricht, RFIE party, led by the opportunist politicians, Charles Pasqua and Phillippe de Villiers, to scoop over 2 million votes, (13 MEPs) whilst the FN could only manage 1 million (5 MEPs) and the FNMN, 575,000.

In Germany, three nationalist parties contested the elections and although collectively they attracted over 668,000 votes. This was not enough for any of them to win seats.

In Austria, the Freedom Party (FPO) led by Jorge Haider, captured 5 Euro seats with 652,000 votes, over 23% of the poll.

Jorg Haider. Five Euro-seats and 23% of the total votes cast.

In Belgium, three parties, Vlaams Blok, Front National, and Front National Belge, competed for the nationalist vote, which is far more fragmented than in other countries because of historical differences. Whilst the total votes cast for nationalist parties was over 800,000, the Flemish Vlaams Blok, attracted almost 700,000 of these. This, almost 10% of the vote gave the VB two MEPs.

Belgium's General Election was being held on the same day and again Vlaams Blok were successful.

In Flanders they polled almost 30% giving them fifteenseats in the lower house and four seats in the upper. In Antwerp, VB's vote was almost 40% making them feel confident of installing a Vlaams Blok mayor in next year's council elections.

In Denmark, the Dansk Folkparti won one Euro-seat polling 115,000 (5.8%) of the vote. The other nationalist party, Fremskridtspartiet, polled just over 15,000 votes.

In Holland, the Centrumdemocraten, (CD) failed to win any seats, polling just under 18,000 votes, and in Sweden, the Sverige Democratena (SD) also failed to win seats polling 10,000 votes.

In Britain, the elections were marred by a vicious smear campaign conducted against the British National Party by left-wing media and other un-democratic groups. Despite this, the BNP still managed to attract over 100,000 votes. Unfortunately, not enough to win any Euro seats.

More details of the BNP campaign are covered elsewhere in this magazine.

General Remer:

Regular readers of League Sentinel are well acquainted with the war record of the legendary Major General Otto Ernst Remer. His military decorations speak for themselves ... the Knight's Cross with Oak Leaves, the Golden Wounded distinction for his eight combat wounds, the German Gold Cross, the Silver Close Combat Medal for 48 close combats, the Infantry Attack distinction, the Bulgarian Order of Merit for the occupation of Skopje and others. He reported directly to Hitler as commander of the Panzer Scout Division. His views on contemporary events, however, are perhaps less known. It is not our policy to harp on about the past in some nostalgic fashion. General Remer had much to contribute in the latter part of his life. An interview with the Islamic newspaper Alshaab (The People) in 1993 made clear his awareness of current affairs.

It is no exaggeration to describe General Remer as a true friend of the Arabs after acting as military adviser to President Nasser between 1953 and 1954. He then lived in Syria for six years. His interview with Alshaab was accepted with enormous enthusiasm throughout the Arab world to such a degree that it provoked a reaction from Jewish groups in Europe who prevented the French edition of Alshaab being distributed. His interviewer, Ahmed Rami, was accused by Zionist organisations of antisemitism and he was jailed in Sweden for six months. He remains, to this day, a courageous fighter against Zionism with a veneration of Nasser and his vision of Arab unity.

It was natural these two men should come together in mutual respect and friendship. This understanding was best summed up in Yasser Kamal's foreword to the interview ... "It is only the nation-lovers who can create ties of friendship among peoples. For friendship among peoples can prevail only based on reciprocal respect with the provision that the masses of the peoples continue to inhabit their ancestral lands. Any population displacement, any invading immigration, is a deadly enemy for friendship among peoples". The allusion to Palestine is obvious but the sentiments are those of Arab nationalism throughout the Middle East. General Remer followed the problems of Islam with deep interest and was capable of an extraordinary lucidity when commenting on these problems.

We do not have enough column inches to reproduce the entire interview ad verbatim but a commentary will suffice. Ahmed Rami began by asking the General what he thought of the New World Order. He responded that it was neither "new" nor does it cover the world. He said, "The states that allied themselves against Germany were, whether they knew it or not, in the service of Jewish interests and plans that were geared not only against Germany but also against the Islamic and Arab nations and against the Western nations. The rape of Palestine and the creation of the Israeli state is no coincidence but the outcome of a planning process methodically implimented over generations".

General Remer

Further on in the interview, General Remer commented on the changing situation in the post-war world. The Islamic revolution in Afghanistan dealt a heavy blow to the Soviet Union. The Red Army proved impotent in the face of the Mujaheddin whose main weapon was their spiritual strength. In Iran, the Islamic revolution destroyed the Zionist grip in that nation. He said, "What is new is the movement of Islamic rebirth and the decay of the strength of the colonial government agencies directed from afar by Israel ... another new situation arose from the fact that Iraq was on the way to breaking the Israeli monopoly on the atomic bomb in the Near East ... among the new developments I cite the emergence of new countries in which Jewish organisations have no influence".

The triumph of Islamic might in Afghanistan gave hope to the people living under Soviet dominion which led to the complete collapse of the Soviet Union, to the reunification of Germany and the independence of Islamic republics formerly in the Soviet Union. The USSR was always rabidly anti-Islamic and made every effort to destroy religion in its Islamic republics. In that respect, it collapsed from within.

A Tribute

General Remer's views on the Gulf War would not exactly please Western governments in thrall to their Zionist puppeteers. Saddam Hussein could never pose a threat to the United States, either militarily or otherwise. The General asked, "It remains a fact that Iraq has never planned a war against the USA and, even less, has it declared one. Why then has America mobilised her entire forces and those of her Western and Arab allies against Iraq?". The answer, he explained, is that "Israel saw in Iraq a military threat to her domination over the Muslims in that area. That is why she mobilised her Jewish propagandists, who control the mass media in the West". They exaggerated the military strength of Iraq in order to justify intensification of an attack. There never was a moral obligation to "liberate" Kuwait. The purpose of the anti-Saddam campaign was to destroy Iraq and maintain Israel's hegemony in that part of the world. As for the neighbouring state of Iran, there is no doubt in the General's eyes that Israel will no longer forgo any opportunity to incite the USA into some form of military action against the Islamic republic. The General rounded off the answer with, "Israel's aim is to liquidate Iran and at the same time to destroy Islam, the Islamic movement and any resistance against the tyranny of the Zionist world order".

In the second half of the interview the General drew an interesting parallel between the humiliation of his defeated Germany and the fate of the Palestinians. "Our nation", he said, "was degraded then in the same manner in which the Islamic peoples are today". After the Versailles Diktat many of the General's generation took an interest in the exploits of Abd el-Krim who humiliated the French and Spanish in the Rif war. He was later exiled and imprisoned by the French. The General recalled how his mother admired the courage of Abd el-Krim who was a hero to those who lived in that remnant of Germany exploited by the French. In the interview he was proud to declare that he met the "great Arab hero" and was honored with his friendship. General Remer stated, "To this day, large German regions are occupied, especially by the Poles who got them from the Soviet occupation. In West Poland there certainly is a German Palestine". He believed it is the task of future generations to recover those areas, at the same time it is the purpose of the Intifada to liberate Palestine.

Such global co-operation is not new. The General explained, "Because Hitler recognised the interests and problems that he had in common with the Arab peoples, during the war he proposed to the Mufti of Jerusalem, Mohammed Aman Husseini, to relocate to Berlin. The mufti was received in Germany like a head of state ... The humiliations wrought upon us in World War 1 prompted us to great efforts and occassioned a great national rebirth under Hitler. Under Hitler, Germany became free of the elements that had always been responsible for the weakening of Germany before".

The General touched on the delicate subject of anti-Arab and anti-Islamic racism in the West, pointing the finger directly at the "traditional enemy". He further extrapolated that the aim of Israel is to convince public opinion in the West that Islam is an enemy of and a threat to the West. Further, that to convince these dupes that all the Jews want is protection from Islamic terrorism ... in order to defend the West. Islam is accesssible to all, whether you want to believe in this or that ... or nothing. The League of St George is non-sectarian and we maintain that position of defending religious liberty. Judaism, as we understand it, is an exclusive cult reserved for the racist "chosen people". Having said that, the media campaign against Islam is a propaganda exercise in swaying Western public opinion in favour of a war against Iraq. This propaganda exercise is now being directed against Iran.

As General Remer points out, "The war against the Jewish organisations is a total war that must be waged in the areas of spirituality, the news-media, science, culture and politics. In the West, the prevalence of the Jewish agencies in those areas is the foundation of their strength. The Jews have never waged a real war themselves and have never gained a victory by their own means".

The 85 year old German general died on 4 October, 1997. In his Spanish exile the German government did not cease persecuting him with a mountain of extradition demands. But they never took him alive!

SCIENTISTS CONFIRM LIARS HAVE BIG NOSES

We all had a quiet chuckle on reading the report of nose expert, Dr Alan Hirsch of the Smell and Taste Treatment Foundation in Chicago. Dr Hirsch is not a fictitious character from a Peter Simple column but rather wants to be taken quite seriously. Apparantly, he spends most of his academic time studying noses and claims to have discovered the reason why some noses are bigger than others. The nose, he says, expands when the subject is lying.

We have always had our own nose experts, some of whom have spent their entire lives studying noses ... particularly large ones. But we at League Sentinel must protest at Dr Hirsch's recent claim to fame and insist that we got there first with this fascinating theory.

Dr Hirsch tells us he discovered the phenomenon of the expanding nose while studying a squirming US president. Our own science correspondent has spent long days and nights studying another subject who sports a larger schnozzle than the bulbous Clinton. Our correspondent's military training ensured his surveillance would go undetected outside certain offices in New Cavendish Street where a whopper of a nose hid behind tight security.

We have received reliable reports that the famous Gable nose is now so embarrassingly large as a direct result of years of terminological inexactitude that little Steve and Nick in the Searchlight editorial office must vacate the room whenever Gable shoves his hooter in, so to speak. I have personally seen his bugle glowing like a Belisha beacon on one of those ridiculous audience participation shows on the TV. There he occassionally pops up as the only expert alive on the subject of the neo-Nazi threat to his great plans ... but again and again that mass of flesh in the middle of his face gives the game away. I have seen it twitch and contort in such a fashion that would put Clinton's famous beak to shame.

In Dr Hirsch's findings it has been revealed that there is some erectile tissue which is stimulated by a flow of blood. Personally, I am no expert on the subject but I wonder if the eminent doctor has been looking at the appropriate part of Clinton's anatomy. Erectile tissue, indeed! We are told that the swelling can cause an irritation with the resultant scratching ... a real give away when the subject is lying.

This scientific bombshell has been largely ignored by members of a certain religious minority, many of whom pride themselves on having big noses. Our science correspondent continued his research outside a well-known place of worship in Seymour Street on a Saturday afternoon. When Dr Hirsch's findings were put to them, a knee in the groin from one member of the hatted congregation was not what he expected. "Are you some kind of fascist murderer, already?" was about as much scientific response he was going to get. Obviously, all the big noses were not pleased. Liars can control blushing. The experienced liar can look you straight in the eye without batting an eyelid ...but none of them can stop that blood rushing through the nose with the resultant swelling. When Gable attempted to smear the League of St George with tales of East German mercenaries being recruited to overthrow the current South African government, did he go on TV? No, he spoke on BBC Radio Kent where his nasal activity would not be detected by the gullible masses. That should be enough proof or my name is Ronnie Deuster.

Another aspect of this controversial discovery is that such knowledge could be exploited by antisemites and play directly into the hands of the unscrupulous. They would be very misguided if they thought all Jews have big noses ... I know a few goyim who would be the envy of the Chief Rabbi in that respect. These visual clues should be taken a little seriously for now you know why Gable hides his hideous face so much. At last, we have him by his nasal hairs!

The Thuggery Of Political Correctness

Evidence of the politicisation of the police could not be better illustrated than in the case of Merseyside's Chief Constable, Norman Bettison, who made his mark as one of the first police chiefs to declare war on that phenomenon invented by the Lawrence Enquiry, "institutionalised racism". His enthusiasm for bending over backwards to appease the army of crypto-marxist "anti-racists" has reached the ultimate low.

We are only too aware of the malice and intolerance directed against decent law-abiding white patriots, having several members singled out as targets of these sanctimonious little Bolsheviks. For us, they are a mild irritation. We who have endured the struggle for European national liberation have been only too aware of the tactics of "anti-racist" groups, with one particularly nasty coterie posing as the champions of "the finest cause for humankind".

A recent astonishing case in Liverpool illustrates the complete lack of morality displayed by these self-appointed mind-benders. It is no exaggeration to state that every English man and woman is now a potential victim of the anti-racist witchhunt made more threatening by the hysteria promulgated during the Lawrence enquiry. Senior police officers, like craven lackeys of political fashion, fall in line like obedient servants of the crypto-marxists with vows of loyalty to every anti-British sentiment. Let it be made clear that "anti-racism" is not the finest cause for humankind but, obversely, a serious threat to freedom ... freedom of speech and expression! A Liverpool ex-docker, one of that breed of the finest working class communities, now lives in fear of his life because Merseyside police have deemed to prosecute him for "racially aggravated criminal damage". This is no bored-out-of-his-brain skinhead. The man in question is 78 years old involved in perfectly legitimate canvassing for a democratic political party. The UK Independence Party is a fringe-group of middle class people who would not say boo to a goose. Because the tone of their election propaganda smacks a bit of old-fashion patriotism, the very idea of Englishness, George Staunton faces more than prosecution as the anti-racist thugs seek to satisfy their malicious instincts. 78 year old Mr Staunton went out alone to promote the electoral chances for his chosen party. Apart from pushing electoral addresses through letterboxes, he felt free to add a little graffiti to brighten up run-down Toxteth. This artistic flurry comprised the words "Free Speech for England". Free speech, indeed. As every warped little "anti-racist" marxist knows, free speech is the sole domain of the politically correct with "no platform" being the battle cry. But perhaps the real offending word was at the end of the slogan. It seems the word "England" is enough for the anti-racists to get steamed up about with a now hypersensitive police force acting immediately on the most spurious complaint from anyone who equates England with some unbelieveable myth of a cruel racist dictatorship intent on persecuting racial minorities.

Once Known As The Police Service, Now We Have Politically Correct Rottweillers

The UK Independence Party is little Englanderism at its most quaint and harmless. That it returned three members to the European Parliament makes one wonder why anyone should seek to be a member of a club they would wish closed down. But back to the appalling case of Mr Staunton who remains unrepentent in his love for things English and the principle of free speech.

It is very difficult to take in all this lunacy especially the role and comments of Merseyside police. In a press statement to The Liverpool Echo it was explained that Mr Staunton was arrested after "outrage at the appearance of highly offensive, racist graffiti in the area ... After launching a dramatic, painstaking, dawn-till-dusk surveillance operation, a 78 year-old male has been arrested and charged with racially aggravated criminal damage". We also have Inspector Jim Fitzsimmons of the euphemistically sounding outfit called the Community Affairs Team. He appeals to "our" communities to "join us in the fight against racism" ... you can not get more political than that.

Fighting racism, as they put it, has now descended to the level of brainwashing a police force for the purpose of hounding and persecuting the very people who once looked to the police for security and protection. You have been warned!

European Elections

No Euro Seats For BNP

In the first ever elections in Britain held under the continental style proportional representation system the only genuine nationalist party standing, the British National Party, failed to win any seats despite attracting over 100,000 votes.

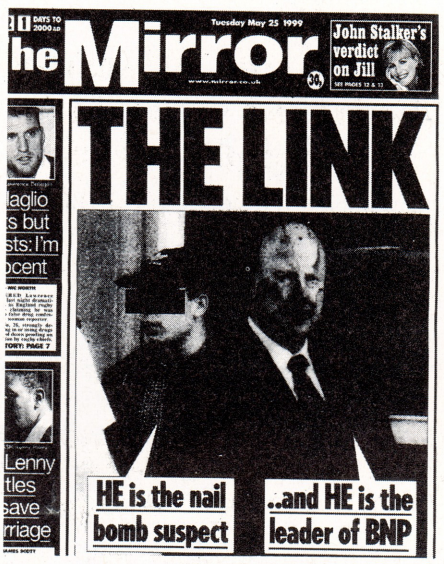
The BNP's campaign, in which over 15 million election addresses were distributed, was marred by a vicious smear campaign by left-wing national media and illegal interference by commissars in local postal delivery offices. The BNP had committed to stand candidates in all the seats being contested and by this obtained broadcasting time on national television and radio. But before voting had began certain sections of the media were following orders from their shadowy masters to smear the BNP and mounted an extremely successful smear campaign.

The Daily Mirror newspaper carried a story attempting to link the man accused of carrying out the recent bomb attacks in London, with the BNP and its leader John Tyndall. Then, just four days before the ballot, stories appeared accusing the BNP of putting up fictitious candidates or candidates who had allegedly given false addresses on election nomination papers. This story was expanded when Labour MP, Frank Cook, raised the issue in parliament. He was supported by Conservative, Peter Bottomley, who nowadays seems to encourage "the MP for Eltham South London, where Stephen Lawrence was murdered" after every report mentioning his name. The egotistical MPs demanded that three BNP candidates for the North-East of England "come forward to prove they exist", somehow forgetting that members of the British parliament have no power over the running of Euro elections.

In addition to this vicious smear campaign, the BNP had to contend with local postal union commissars urging their members to discriminate against the BNP by refusing to deliver their election address. It is probable that several thousand voters did not receive BNP election material, and we hope the party will make a formal complaint about this.

The BNP also had to face competition from the UK Independence Party who were also campaigning against Britain's position in Europe. The UKIP, a remarkably well financed organisation is regarded by some political observers as an establishment financed "safety valve" designed to attract voters who would otherwise support genuine British nationalist parties.

In the event, the ploy was successful with the UKIP polling almost seven times the BNP's total, and gaining three seats in the European parliament.



The BNP must now try to gain members and activists from the 102,647 Britons who voted for them, and in our view should consider foregoing their election broadcast by not standing candidates in every seat. But instead concentrate their resources where they have the greatest support.

Comment: The media mysteriously chose to ignore two other early day motions by MPs concerned about alleged "electoral fraud". Both were connected to allegations of vote rigging in Hackney, East London. Once last year, another more recently. The motions called for the expulsion from the Tory party of a prominent Orthodox Jewish councillor, Satmar Leibowitz. Police investigating the alleged fraud have arrested a student from a Jewish religious establishment.

Obituary

It was with much sadness that we received news of the recent death of

Ron Cartlidge

Ron, aged 71, was a long serving member of the League of St George and also the West Midlands regional correspondent for League Sentinel. Ron who lived in Walsall, also served for a number of years as the branch secretary for the National Front. His funeral was held on June 2nd in Walsall and was attended by many nationalist comrades.

He will be sadly missed.
